

Mgr. Terézia Jarabá

e-mail: terezia.jaraba@tvu.sk

She works as a full-time PhD student at the Department of Public Health, Faculty of Health Care and Social Work, Trnava University in Trnava. She teaches Epidemiology I., Epidemiology of Non-communicable diseases and Analysis of epidemiological data. As part of her doctoral studies, she focuses on the issue of oncological screening and health inequity, with regard to individual and systemic determinants of women's participation in mammography screening.

In 2023, she completed professional practice at the Regional Public Health Office in Trnava, and in 2024 at the Regional Public Health Office in Považská Bystrica. In 2026, she participated in the Blended Intensive Programme at the Wroclaw Medical University as a part of the Erasmus+.

Year of birth: 2002

Year of graduation with a bachelor's degree: 2024

Year of graduation with a master's degree: 2026

Bachelor's thesis: Epidemiological analysis of HPV infection and cervical cancer

Master's thesis: Socioeconomic factors and women's participation in breast cancer screening