

Mgr. Radoslav Kulich – works as an internal PhD student at the Department of Laboratory Investigation Methods in Health Care at the Faculty of Health Sciences of the University of Trnava, where he completed his master's degree in 2024. He participates in teaching the subject Pathological Anatomy and exercises for the subjects Microbiology - Mycology and Histology. From 2021-2024, he worked as a medical laboratory technician in the Department of Clinical Microbiology. As part of his PhD studies, he is involved in immunohistochemical investigation of PD-L1 protein expression in different types of malignant tumors as a marker to select cancer patients suitable for immunotherapy.

Born: 1999