

RNDr. et. Mgr. Nicholas Martinka, Ph.D. – works as an Assistant Professor at the Department of Laboratory Diagnostic Methods in Healthcare and simultaneously serves as the Head of the Department of Clinical Biochemistry at A. Winter Hospital in Piešťany. Currently, he acts as the professional guarantor of the Department of Clinical Biochemistry in the field of Laboratory Medicine. He is a member of SKIZP (Slovak Chamber of Laboratory Technicians), the Slovak Society of Clinical Biochemistry, and a registered member of the EFLM Academy (European Federation of Clinical Chemistry and Laboratory Medicine). In the field of education, he is involved in teaching courses such as Analytical Chemistry, Biochemistry, Diagnostic Methods in Biochemistry, Biochemistry for Nursing and Biochemistry for Public Health. His scientific and research activities focus mainly on oxidative stress in cardiovascular diseases, analytical interferences in laboratory determinations, and the evaluation of analytical characteristics of qPCR methods in the rapid diagnosis of infectious diseases. He also focuses on monitoring various mutations using rapid molecular diagnostics. He is currently enrolled in postgraduate education in the Master of Public Health (MPH) program.
